

Maha Fakhri, SIPC

Sustainability Advisor
Concordia University
Montréal, Québec

Maha Fakhri is a sustainability advisor at Concordia University. She works on enhancing the sustainability practices of both the Concordia University Foundation and the University's pension portfolios. Maha previously worked as an investment analyst at the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation, where she was part of a team that managed the foundation's portfolio and shifted it toward fully responsible investments. Maha is also part of the Québec Network Advisory Committee of the UN Principles of Responsible Investment (UNPRI). Aside from working at the university, she is also a member of a few societies, served on different philanthropic organizations' boards of directors and contributed to the development of the Sustainability Ecosystem at Concordia University.