

Megan K. Kelly, CEBS

Senior Vice President and Midwest Region Leader
Segal
Cleveland, Ohio

Megan K. Kelly, CEBS, is a Senior Vice President and Midwest Region Leader at Segal with more than 30 years of experience consulting to multiemployer health and pension plans on a wide range of benefits issues. She currently leads Segal's Midwest Region and has held numerous leadership roles throughout her career with the firm, including National Multiemployer Health Practice Leader. She is also the incoming National Multiemployer Market Director and serves as a strategic resource to Segal's multiemployer clients on issues affecting health and pension funds.

Megan is the author of the Benefits Magazine article "Multiemployer Health Plan Mergers: Assessing When Bigger May Be Better," and is a frequent speaker on health benefit topics within the multiemployer community.

Prior to joining Segal, Megan served as Director of Health and Welfare for a national human resources consulting firm. She earned a B.A. in Health Care Administration with a minor in Business from Ohio University and holds the Certified Employee Benefit Specialist (CEBS) designation.
